Plagiarism

Miss: Alia Ismail

Functional English (SS1012)

- What do you understand by plagiarism?
- Why do you think people plagiarize?

Definition:

Plagiarism is using someone else's words, ideas, or work as your own without proper acknowledgment.

Examples:

- Copying from the internet or another student's work.
- Using quotations without credit.
- Paraphrasing too closely.
- Submitting AI-generated content as your own.

Why Plagiarism Is a Serious Issue

- It's academic dishonesty because you steal ideas.
- Leads to loss of credibility and possible disciplinary action.
- Prevents real learning and skill development.
- In the professional world, it can lead to legal consequences or loss of reputation.

Types of Plagiarism

Type	Description	Example
Direct Plagiarism	Copying text word-for-word without citation	Copying a paragraph from Wikipedia
Self-Plagiarism	Reusing your own previous work	Submitting last semester's essay again
Mosaic (Patchwork)	Mixing copied text with your own words	Rewriting slightly but keeping the same structure
Accidental Plagiarism	Forgetting to cite or paraphrasing poorly	Using facts or quotes without giving credit

How to Avoid Plagiarism?

Term	Description
Quote	Use the author's exact words (with quotation marks & citation).
Paraphrase	Restate the idea in your own words & structure, still cite the source.
Summary	Give only main ideas in your own words, and cite if based on a source.

- ✔ Always give credit to the original author.
- ✔ Use your own voice and critical thinking.
- ✔ Quoting, paraphrasing, and summarizing correctly show understanding.
- ✔ Cite all ideas, data, and words that are not your own.

"Plagiarism is not just about copying words—it's about borrowing without acknowledgment. Learning to write ethically builds your voice and integrity."
